Principal and Director of Research and Publication and
Chief editor of the Journal.

Dear Readers

It gives me immense pleasure to present Volume III, Issue1 (2026) of the Don Bosco International Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences, (3048-6823, online) a peer-reviewed multidisciplinary and annual journal dedicated to promoting academic excellence, critical inquiry, and innovative research across diverse fields of study.

In an era marked by rapid technological advancement, social transformation, and global interconnectedness, the role of scholarly research has become more significant than ever. Through rigorous research and thoughtful analysis, these disciplines enable us to understand contemporary challenges and contribute meaningfully to the creation of a more inclusive and equitable world.

This volume brings together a diverse collection of scholarly contributions that address emerging issues in education, artificial intelligence, environmental sustainability, social justice, indigenous knowledge systems, political developments, literature, and cultural studies. I am particularly encouraged by the increasing engagement of scholars with themes that integrate traditional knowledge with modern technological advancements, as well as with issues concerning environmental responsibility, inclusivity, and community development. As Director of Research and Publication, I firmly believe that quality research serves as a catalyst for intellectual growth, institutional development, and societal progress. I extend my sincere appreciation to all the authors who have contributed their valuable research to this volume. My gratitude also goes to the reviewers, members of the editorial and advisory boards, and the publication team whose dedication and expertise have ensured the successful publication of this issue. Their collective efforts uphold the highest standards of academic integrity and scholarly excellence.

With best wishes,
